Fake Problems

You of all people should know how I feel.
I am running around.
I am falling down.
In the cold, in the street,
I am weak without your hold.And you could be the one,
That saves me from this
On the cusp of eruption volcano
I am due to become.
And when I burn your skin this time around
We will remember how it felt.
To be young
To be dumb
To be drunk as hell
And in love
To be sad
To be no one
Pretend you're something more
Than you are,
But you're not.Now baby take my temperature
It's 150 degrees
Oh I am burning up
I am keeling over
and no one is saving me
Because no one cares
About your selfish life
Your goals and hopes are hollow
Don't bother me one second more
With your ideals of some perfect life
Cause it only exists
When we're young
When we're dumb
When we're drunk as hell
And in love
When we're sad
When we're no one
Pretend you're something more
Than you are
But you're notWhen you're young
When you're dumb

When you're drunk as hell
And in love
When you're sad
When you're no one
Pretend you're something more
Than you areWhen you're young (There's nothing really left to say,)
When you're dumb
When you're drunk as hell (My soul is stuck on the interstate.)
And in love
When you're sad. (When I finally get around to calling home,)
When you're no one
Pretend you're something more (I'll have long forgotten the area code.)
Than you are
