

Sweet Catatonia

Catatonia

Chance dreams that cut across the bed
Leaving colors there instead
See lines that draw it to an end but ignore them
And if I say how I feel again, is it wise to do it? Or like hearing for the umpteenth time
A song you despise
Dont you fall asleep
Theres lots of things I need to say that just wont keep Sweet, sweet, sweet, sweet Catatonia
I should have told ya
Sweet, sweet, sweet, sweet Catatonia
I should have told ya And with my fears in the back of my mind
Will they gang up on me?
And when I least expect them to will they devour me? Dont you turn aside
Your tired ears must hear me out
Theres nowhere to hide Sweet, sweet, sweet, sweet Catatonia
I should have told ya
Sweet, sweet, sweet, sweet Catatonia
I should have told ya Don't you turn aside
Your tired ears must hear me out
There's nowhere to hide Sweet, sweet, sweet, sweet Catatonia
I should have told ya
Sweet, sweet, sweet, sweet Catatonia
I should have told ya Sweet, sweet, sweet, sweet Catatonia
I should have told ya
(And with my fears in the back of my mind, will they gang up on me?)
Sweet, sweet, sweet, sweet Catatonia
I should have told ya
(And when I least expect them to, will they devour me?)

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>