

God and Country Music

George Strait

God and country music are like whiskey and a prayer
Like Johnny Cash's arm around Billy Graham
God and country music They both never change
You find 'em when you need 'em
Where you stand There's always lost in the fountain
And darkness in the I-saw-the-light
It's living in the small towns
In some church and backroad honky tonk tonight It's a dance between the sin and the salvation
Come hell or high water
There's two things still worth saving
God and country music
God and country music
God and country music,
They both showed you the truth
Seen the low of the valley
And the highs of the mountains too
Folded hands and guitar strings
Jukebox preachers and angels singing
Call you like they knew ya
Between the hell and hallelujah There's always lost in the fountain
And darkness in the I-saw-the-light
It's still living in the small towns
In some church and backroad honky tonk tonight It's a dance between the sin and the salvation
Come hell or high water
There's two things still worth saving
God and country music
God and country music
There's always lost in the fountain
And darkness in the I-saw-the-light
It's still living in the small towns
In some church and backroad honky tonk tonight
It's a dance between the sin and the salvation
Come hell or high water
There's two things still worth saving God and country music
God and country music
God and country music
God and country music
