

On Your Deck

Derik Nelson

Go ahead go throw me out go give me to the storm
But remember there's a girl out there who loves the rain
Pull back all your furniture your deck is getting wet
It only leaves more room for me to ask her for a dance
Can't you see the way I cope in moving on without you
I'm learning to forget the ways you lie
And as much as you had wished that you were everything to me
I guess there's so much liberation in goodbye

Like you want tel when the sun sets in the heart of New York city
Or when autumn drops it's bags on summers door
It's the moment when you wake up with your life one step ahead
It's time to be who your pretended to before

I'm in love with a girl I kissed on your deck the moment it started to rain
And I guess I made a mess there's nothing left here do confess
That she's got eyes like a million midnights and a smile like a summers day
So go ahead and try to make me give all that a way
hey yeah

Are you really blaming me for becoming someone you had never known
It doesn't mean I didn't love you I just prefer to sleep alone
And I'm done with keeping secrets oh no matter what it takes
So what if she snuck in that night to make some good mistakes
The truth is I don't expect you to understand my feelings
Doesn't mean your not allowed to be upset
But you pushed me out I looked back once and finally dropped my defense
And .... set my goals on getting wet oh waoh

I'm in love with a girl I kissed on your deck the moment it started to rain
That she's got eyes like a million midnights and a smile like a summers day
So go ahead and try to make me give all that a way

And as I stood there in the rainfall with a new love in my hands
Without the bitter sore of heartbreak to rep-emend my small demands
I realised just how much perfection comes from smashing things apart
And I vowed to never keep myself from things that mend the heart
So thank you for the fights for the bragging rights how can I forget the countless sleepless nights
And thank you most for giving me the choice to choose to light

A fire upon my deck with a flame that's all my own
It makes the world seem so much nearer to the world I thought I never could have known
