

Daughters

Lissie

Keep that tender heart
All the pain you take and make the start
In this life, you learn your strength and strife
You're more than just a mistress or a wife When it's not safe to walk these streets
Join your hands and sing with me
Raise our voices, hear our plea We are the daughters
We are the sisters who
Carry the water
We are the mothers too
We are each other
We are the other
We are the daughters Fierce as fire and sweet as fruit
Not easily defined, not following suit
In a world that's run on pride and force
Women of the world, we have a voice When it's not safe to walk these streets
Gangs and tribes and clubs of beasts
But when, oh when will there be peace?
Will there be peace? We are the daughters
We are the damned and doomed
Give us your violence
We won't be silent
We are the shelter
We are the helpers
We are the daughters We are the daughters
We are the daughters
We are the daughters
We are the daughters
We are the daughters
We are the daughters We are the daughters
We are the sisters who
Carry the water
We are the mothers too
We are each other
We are the other
We are the daughters We are the daughters
We are the damned and doomed
Give us your violence
We won't be silent
We are the shelter

We are the helpers
We are the daughters Oh yeah oh yeah
Oh yeah oh yeah
Oh yeah oh yeah
Oh yeah oh yeah
Oh yeah oh yeah
Oh yeah oh yeah
Oh yeah oh yeah
Oh yeah oh yeah

Songwriters

ELISABETH CORRIN MAURUS, ANGELO PETRAGLIA, LINCOLN PARISH
Published by
Lyrics © Kobalt Music Publishing Ltd., Warner/Chappell Music, Inc.

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnyrics.com/>