

The Road (Run for Miles)

We Are the Ocean

You're falling apart
From the inside out
With no one but yourself to blame
So face the truth or suffer and lose
All the games you play keep pushing me further away Come back to me, come back to see
There's no reason why
Take the time to make everything alright Run, we could run for miles
It'll take a while to bring me back to you
Run, we could run for miles
Will you walk the wire?
You know it's up to you
So where is your heart? (Have you lost all feeling?)
Go back to the start (Have you lost the meaning?)
Leaving behind everything you know
Well make a truce, there's nothing to prove
Get your head out the clouds or be washed away by the rain Come back to me, come back to see
It's the same old story
Everytime you look the other way
So what's there left to say? Run, we could run for miles
It'll take a while to bring me back to you
Run, we could run for miles
I should walk on by us
If you want the truth
You know it's up to you
Falling apart from the inside out
With no one but yourself to blame
So face the truth or suffer and lose
All the games you play keep pushing me further away Come back to me, come back to see
The light beyond the shade
Everybody has their price to pay Run, we could run for miles
It'll take a while to bring me back to you
You're running out of luck and the road is long enough
Tell me when you've had enough
You know it's up to you (You know it's up to you)
If you want the truth (Well if you want the truth)
There's nothing left to prove
You know it's up to, YOU!
