Cry Wolf

Cavo

It seems you've waited most your life to come down
With all these feelings so close around you
And they blame you, blame you again
And it seems I failed you more times than life allows
I'll break the pieces down you build them back somehow
And still they blame you, blame you again
They won't be sure this time
And when they need you, they won't believe you
With the stars so bright
They burn straight through the night
And I never felt so clear now without you in me
Insecure from all these endings
And I failed you and they blame you again
They won't be sure this time

And when they need you, they won't believe you
With the stars so bright
They burn straight through the night
And when they need you, they won't believe you
With the stars so bright
We drove straight through the night
And when they need you, they won't believe you
With the stars so bright
They burn straight through the night
And when they need you, they won't believe you
With the stars so bright
They burn straight through the night
That's when they leave

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/