

Tail Lights

Rachel Potter

There's a place I've never been
Where nobody knows me yet
A golden road that's leading
I'll know it when I see it It's been keeping me up at night
It's been calling me in my sleep
Feels like a brand new home
A highway I'm already on
I'll be the one they talk about I've been thinking 'bout tail lights
Thinking 'bout what it might be like
When the sun goes down over this town
And I'm going on
I'll lean out of my window
Wave at everything I used to know
I wanna hear somebody saying:
There she goes
There she goes They'll knock at my front door
And hear nothing but silence
I'll be off in the distance
On the other side of wishing
Just a turn of the key
No looking back for me
I'll leave this whole town talking
She was always gonna be something
I'll fade away into the darkness I've been thinking 'bout tail lights
Thinking 'bout what it might be like
When the sun goes down over this town
I'm going on
I'll lean out of my window
Wave at everything I used to know
I wanna hear somebody saying:
There she goes
There she goes I've been thinking 'bout tail lights
Thinking 'bout what it might be like
When the sun goes down over this town, and I'm going on I'll lean out of my window, wave at everything that I used to know
I wanna hear somebody saying:
There she goes
There she goes
There she goes, she goes

There she goes
