

Out The Window

Ashley Gearing

Her mama and her daddy and her uncle and her brother
Had her whole life planned
They had no clue
What she was about to do
She met that boy in the corduroy pants at the record store
Moppin' up the floor
Looking so cute and bored
She waited in her bedroom
For the sign of his headlights
Busted down the screen and said goodbye
To her old life
And her parents dreams went out the window
With a short blue dress and a jewelry box
She left a note sayin', " I'll call you tomorrow,
I love you both," and she was gone
She was gone, out the window
Coffee and chicken and biscuits on the interstate
I guess beauty school is gonna have to wait
Stealin' sideways kisses and singin' songs
Crossin' county lines drivin' all night long
He opened up her hand and gave her a bubblegum ring
Said I know that this ain't much but will you
Please marry me
And a big bouquet went out the window
Like her brown hair blowin' in the wind
In the passenger's seat of his blue Camaro
She could see a sweeter life
A new sunrise out the window
Guitar solo
Five years later they were happy ever after
Makin babies
Doin' dishes in the kitchen watchin'
Her kids playin'
And all her dreams were right there out the window
Pigtails and overalls makin' mud pies
And she's tryin' to feed 'em to her little brother
What a crazy life, there's her beautiful life
Right out the window
Yeah, her mama and her daddy and her uncle and her brother
Had her whole life planned
They had no clue
What she was about to do

Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by
<https://damnyrics.com/>