Jack Ingram

Like the fish in the lake and that cane pole you make

And the feeling when one's on the line

Like the smile of a friend glad to see you again

That erases the passing of timeLike the eagle that flies, the sun in the sky

Or the grace God has given to meIt's free things I wouldn't trade for anythingLike the night we were standing with your hand in my hand

Just staring up at the stars

Dancing to something but it wasn't nothing

But the beating of two lucky heartsThe sound of a train, hard pouring rain

And the words that you whispered to meOh free things I wouldn't trade for anything are everything

Free things I wouldn't trade for anything are everything to meLike that penny on the ground or the fortune I found

When you wrapped your arms around meFree things I wouldn't trade for anything are everything

Free things I wouldn't trade for anything, they're everything

Free things I wouldn't trade for anything are everything to me
