

Save Your Scissors

City and Colour

So go on
And I will refrain
And I'll keep on running this never ending race maybe next time will be the right time and maybe next time will be your time So save your scissors
For someone else's skin
My surface is so tough
I don't think the blade will dig in
Save your strength
Save your wasted time
There's no way that I want you to be left behind
Go on save your scissors
Save your scissors So why does it always seem
That every time I turn around
Somebody falls in love with me
This has never been my soul intention
And I have never claimed to have patents on such inventions Just save your scissors
For someone else's skin
My surface is so tough
I don't think the blade will dig in
Save your strength
Save your wasted time
There's no way that I want you to be left behind
Go on save your scissors
Save your scissors There is something that I must confess to you tonight
To you tonight
And that is I expect nothing less from you tonight
From you tonight Go on save your scissors
Save your scissors
Save your scissors

Songwriters

GREEN, DALLAS Published by

Lyrics © Sony/ATV Music Publishing LLC Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>