

Strange Shadows

Astorian Stigmata

The only good thing about a shattered heart
Is you can put the pieces back together
    However you want
    But just be careful
    And don't be afraid
To give it away again someday

You could tell me I was wrong
But that doesn't make you right
And you could tell me everything
But still not have said anything
    But late at night
    When you try to fall asleep
The truth crawls into your head

The only good thing about a shattered heart
Is you can put the pieces back together
    However you want
    But just be careful
    And don't be afraid
To give it away again someday

I'll be oh so happy to let you know
    That after the tide rolled out
    And all your all sticks and stones
        That I'm still alive

    And we sang beauty to sleep
        With all our hostile words
And it's strange what you remember
    When your not thinking at all
    And somehow we always forget
        How our hearts got these scars

I'll be oh so happy to let you know
    That after the tide rolled out
    And all your all sticks and stones
        I'm still alive

I'll be oh so happy to let you know

After our lights go out
Your true colors show
I'm still alive

The only good thing about a shattered heart
Is you can put the pieces back together
However you want
But just be careful where you put them
And don't be afraid
To give it away again someday

I'll be oh so happy to let you know
That after the tide rolled out
And all your all sticks and stones
I'm still alive

I'll be oh so happy to let you know
After our lights go out
Your true colors show
I'm still alive

---

Lyrics submitted by brooke colson.

Lyrics provided by
<https://damlyrics.com/>