

Weekend

Betchadupa

First light I walk into the kitchen dishes from the dinner last night
The silence grips me by the window
Waiting for the time to come
I wanted to hear the sound
By now I'm sure you get the picture
Seems like there is some meaning inside
Four hours standing in the same room
Waiting for the time to pass
I wanted to hear the sound of the motorway
She's gonna make it home for the weekend
Thank you for that
And if I'm tired when you get there
I'll blame you for that Cos I've been waiting for such a long time to hear your footstep
So please get home for the weekend
Thank you for that
I clean up mainly just to kill time
And to make the kitchen look nice
This waiting mixed with all this boredom
Makes me feel like I could die
Waiting to hear the sound of the front door
You better make it home for the weekend
Thank you for that
And if I'm tired when you get there
I'll blame you for that
Cos I've been waiting such a long time
to hear your footstep
So please get home for the weekend
Thank you for that
Home for the weekend
I'll thank you for that

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnlyrics.com/>