Maybe Remember Me

Daniel Romano

If I should dare
To walk beside her memory
What would I care
If anyone should find me
While you're away
With a lover you call lonely
I could stay
A holy manBut if away I could begin
To send my ashes to the wind
Or call my name as I rescind
Maybe remember me
Maybe remember me
As silence lends itself to lie
So might you and I
Maybe remember me
Maybe remember me
If only I should see the lie
I'm pointing to the skyAnother time
I'd prey upon your body
And let it sink
To every wound inside me
An orange bird
Comes resting on my shoulders
If I speak a word
She'd fly away and I'd grow olderSo if away I go begin
To send my ashes to the wind
Or call my name as I rescind
If away I'll always be
Take the endless part of me
Find a place and set it free
Maybe remember me
Maybe remember me
As silence lends itself to lie
So might you and I
Maybe remember me
Maybe remember me
If only I should see the lie
I'm pointing to the sky
Maybe remember me

Maybe remember me
If only I should see the lie
I'm pointing to the sky
