

Om Mani Padme Hum

The Glass Child

A thousand miles I have travelled for truth Learned quiet my mind, not to run from youth
I am practicing silence, om mani padme hum still my mind wanders back to you You opened the door to my well hidden past I never was lonely until you spoke my thoughts I'm walking from safe land, I need a new start took a train ride to nowhere, to restart my heart Awoke in the forest with no sense of time, threw the weight of my shoulder to leave this behind I'm walking from safe land, I'm lost can't you see?
Oh lord I am calling, save me Save me Save me I was lost but you turned away Oh I couldn't make you stay Make you stay...I'm down by the river, I'm begging for peace
I wish to discover this purpose of me
I'm naked and homeless, stumbling through the dark write me out of this poem, give me back my heart I thought I was found when he spoke all my thoughts
I gave him my freedom, I gave him my heart
I'm naked and homeless, stumbling through the dark write me out of this poem, give me back my heart "I'm down by the river, I'm begging for peace
I wish to discover this purpose of me
I'm naked and homeless, stumbling through the dark
write me out of this poem, give me back my heart I thought I was found when he spoke all my thoughts
I gave him my freedom, I gave him my heart
I'm naked and homeless, stumbling through the dark write me out of this poem, give me back my heart "A thousand miles I have travelled for truth
Learned quiet my mind, not to run from youth
I am practicing silence, om mani padme hum
still my mind wanders back to you

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnlyrics.com/>