

This Town Called Fate

Stan Ridgway

Now I am just a wanderer at midnight make my run Past the ancient towers underneath this hidden sun
And through the empty streets
And from the bottom I have come
Here in this town they call fate

What law can be broken, what code can be cracked?
No fortune for the token that your memory will lack For every motion forward there's another going back
Here in this town they call fate
And everyone is waiting for that last knock on the door...

Now if you take me in I'll make a pallet on your floor
A sentry at your window while the thunderclaps will roar
Move every stick of furniture
Now up against the door
Here in this town they call fate

Now don't pick up the phone
Just wait until I've run the test
Unplug all these computers now
We'll burn them with the rest
And leave this hard drive by the tree
Yes, as policeman's bait
Here in this town they call fate
And everyone is waiting
for that last knock on the door...

The rain has stopped
Now we could walk outside before it's late
The light shines through the kitchen
Is that really what we ate?

And if you wander past the corner?
Here, take this to keep you safe
Here in this town they call fate

Lyrics Submitted by Richard Gagnon

Lyrics provided by <https://damnlyrics.com/>