Wyoming

you have brought me down here but you can't bring me down anymore under waterfallsyou have brought me down here no you can't bring me down anymore won't come back for moreyou have taught me unease which I've never felt beforeyou brought me to my frontier but I won't call you home anymore into exile I have goneyou care about veneering but I've known all your patterns before feeling's come undoneyou have brought me down here
no you can't bring me down anymore I hesitate no moreyou had better break what is torn til you can't retrace where it's fromyou had better flee cause you're addicted to me but it's too late to retreatyou won't get away no matter how hard you tryyou have brought me down here but you can't bring me down anymoreyou have taught me unease which I've never felt before won't come back for moreyou have brought me down here and I wonder what may comeyou're the lucky one you know when I lose, anxiety will barely glowyou're the lucky one you know I might lose and every stream will stop to flowyou're the lucky one you know I might lose and everything will bring me down to my mute revolt
