Big Idea

Ages and Ages

You got your big idea
I got my big idea
And anyone who wanna stay can stay
If they can find a reasonYour line around the corner
My line is turning over
And I don't need to see the light of day
To feel it on my shoulderAll of my ins are on the outside
And I want you all to notice
'Cause I have no will to hideWith only dark around me
So cold I couldn't ever
Manage to see the curtains draw their weight
Around me like a sweaterAnd hold all my memories of shelter
Beside me like a furnace
Either way I choose to turnAnd leave me out so long, I doubt I'm ever gonna be
So picked apart and practiced at the art of never changing
And it's all so much, the weight, the words, to resonate
I finally have, I finally have, alright already
So much for the restAnd hold all my memories of shelter
Beside me like a furnace
Either way I choose to turnAnd leave me out so long, I doubt I'm ever gonna be
So picked apart and practiced at the art of never changing
And it's all so much, the weight, the words, to resonate
I finally have, I finally have, alright already
So much for (so much for) the rest
