Ravens Calling

Crematory

As I walked along the verge of a mourning lake
The fog over darkened water began to clearThen I looked in the eyes of the ravens
I raised myself to the sky
The blaze increased to a light in the air
Running through my veinsRavens are calling... calling my name
Blood rain is falling my hope is in vain
Tears don't mean the same
Stop playing this game
When the ravens call my name
When the ravens call my name - I'm prepared to die
When the ravens call my name
So I walked among the dying trees of a barren land
As the sun goes down on the silver mountains
Then I looked in the eyes of the ravens
I raised myself to the sky
The blaze increased to a light in the air
Running through my veinsWhen the ravens call my name, it's like coming home
When the ravens call my name - I'm prepared to die
