In Blue Tonight

The Knack

tell me where did the years go summer used to move so damn slowly it was like an eternity coming out of the silence mission bells in the distance are they ringing for you and me no it's your restless heart beating double time as you drown your pain in wine trying to make it through one day as you dream about some day maybe then it'll be alright but you're dressing in blue tonight i remember the first time you consented to be mine all around us the lightning played i can still hear the thunder and the feeling was so wonderful wonderful and so frightening babe but you froze your heart and you closed your mind and you drowned your pain in wine trying to make it through one day
but you're dressing in blue tonightblue the color of midnight covered in frost it will never replace the love you have lost it's just your restless heart beating double time
