

Slippin

Quadron

I was demanding to be the, oh so strong
Truth be told, I only want myself to tag along
Following my shadow, loaded with guilt
See what I didn't know was that
Patching up only makes a quilt Have too much pleasure from illusions of right
It seems I'd rather loose a friend then a fight
But I'm not young enough to know everything
See what I do know is my alter ego is up-coming I'm slippin'
'Cause I can't get me off of this throne
I'm slippin'
It's too much of a comfort zone I'm slippin'
'Cause I can't get me off this throne
I'm slippin'
'Cause I can't get me off of this throne
It's too much of a comfort zone Use persuasion as my strongest approach
I preach my wisdom as a neat friendly poach
Respect you don't get, it's something you owe
If your can't do what I do
It's 'cause you reap what you sow Taking my time sharing my week
Yeah, I am good at listening
When I hear myself speak
Once I swell attention tasted
Enough won't do
Every weekend I am wasted I'm slippin'
Once I swell attention tasted
Enough want to
Every weekend I'm wasted

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnlyrics.com/>