

The Man You Are

Pretenders

I don't expect flowers
I don't expect rings
I don't expect promises
A sentimental thing I just expect you
To be the man you are
I just expect you
To be the man you are I don't expect sobriety
I don't expect stealth
I don't expect you'll ever be a man
Defined by your wealth I just expect you
To be the man you are
I just expect you
To be the man you are When a woman loves a man
She'll do anything he asks
She'll do anything she can
When a woman loves a man I don't expect accolades
I don't expect prizes
I don't expect you'll ever see a babe
In different guises I just expect you
To be the man you are
I just expect you
To be the man you are
To be the man you are
Be the man you are

Songwriters

CHRISTINE HYNDE Published by

Lyrics © Sony/ATV Music Publishing LLC Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnyrics.com/>