My So Called Real World

Slick Shoes

See me, I play all your games
Better than you do
I see it as nothing new
What would you do?I plan my life alone
Stumble through the unknown
I took your hand to find out
Your world was upside downI thank you for all you gave to me
And, and forgive you for what you've done
But don't ever expect from me
The stupid things you've doneI plan my life alone
Stumble through the unknown
I took your hand to find out
Your world was upside downOn a day
Then came to me
A promise of something new
A promise that you'd care for meLove unconditional
Now as far as my life's concerned
It's all in perspective
The greatest gift you gave to me
Was turning my world upside down
