The Big Exit

Editors

Eyes permeate my skin An alcoholic din fills the room we're in Girl I think it's time we leave Like a thief on Christmas Eve Take and you shall receive No need to ask, you already know the way I feel inside Once we're out amongst the shadows See how much our love grows Reflected in shop windows I love you as my blood flows As the rain ruins my best clothes You're a secret only I know Damn the passing hours Damn the sumer flowers They took what once was ours They took what once was ours
