

The Waves

Wang Chung

Working at your job all day sends the time spinning away
Watch TV from half past six, cook, make love and pick up sticks
But you can feel the waves crash on the beach at night, at night Books you read can sublimate, music seems to dissipate
And maybe just a bottle of wine and a couple of smokes and you'll be fine
But you can feel the waves crash on the beach at night
You can hear the waves crash on the beach at night
Your lover lies beside you fast asleep
The moonlight falls upon the tears you weep
And as you read the waves crash on the beach at night, oh at night
So all you really need is love, love to give, receive above
And then the waves will soothe your heart
Your one true love will never part
True love
True love is the answer to everything
True love is the answer, true love is the thing
True love is the answer to everything
True love is the answer, true love is the thing
True love
True love is the answer to everything
True love is the answer, true love is the thing
True love is the answer to everything
True love is the answer, true love is the thing
And we will lie together both asleep
The moonlight will supply the tears we weep
And as we breathe the waves crash on the beach at night
And as we breathe the waves crash on the beach at night
On the beach at night

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnlyrics.com/>