

Maybe Tomorrow

Molly Jenson

Maybe tomorrow
I'll leave this day behind
And maybe then
I'll sing a new song for you And we'll mull over coffee
And the movie we just saw
While you go on about your job
I'll criticize the songs they play on the radio And the rain will fall my way
And I can tell you all about what I did today
And the wind will have blown my way
When you are here with me Maybe tomorrow night we'll go out
And paint the town red or maybe blue
That depends on you, my dear And we'll allow the pace of these days
To pass us by while you complain about LA
I'll tell you that I think, I figured Jesus out And the rain will fall my way
And I can tell you all about what I did today
And the wind will have blown my way
When you are here And we'll mull over coffee
And the movie we just saw
While you go on about your job
I'll criticize the songs they play
The songs that they play And the rain will fall my way
And I can tell you all about what I did today
And the wind will have blown my way
When you are here with me
When you are here with me
