Me

Flotsam and Jetsam

I feel guilty about being alive
I've been hiding out in the basement of my mind
If I don't keep moving my feet will fall asleep
It gets a little harder when the snow's too deepWhat I take, I take on the chin
They keep asking, "Hey, what's wrong with him?"I look alone but there's a crowd I see
I know that you can't tell which one is me
If I don't keep moving my feet will fall asleep
It gets a little harder when the snow's too deepWaiting for my help
Hope you can hold your breath
Not doing anything is what I do bestI look alone but it's a crowd I see
I know that you can't tell which one is me
If I don't keep moving my feet will fall asleep
You know that I can't tell which one is meI know that you can't tell which one is me
You know that I can't tell which one is me
Which one is me
Which one is me
