

Hallway

Emerson Hart

Looking at life through these pictures of you
Who we were and what we went through
Time takes a toll on a photograph
I must remember to take careIf we had to do it all again
Then we'd do it, It was worth it
All of life's little memories
Are hanging, In our hallway
And if there ever comes a time
When this world tries, To pull you away
I'm hanging memories in our hallwayYour baby pictures, us holding hands
Your first christmas, your mom and your dad
Smiling faces of the ones who loved us
Gone from this world, but they live hereIf we had to do it all again
Then we'd do it, It was worth it
All of life's little memories
Are hanging, In our hallway
And if there ever comes a time
When this world tries, To pull you away
I'm hanging memories in our hallwayAnd those little nicks and scars
What was mine and what is yours
Someday there will come a time
When all that's left are photographs
Little frames of life that we once hadIf we had to do it all again
Then we'd do it, It was worth it
All of life's little victories
Are hanging, In our hallway
Better part of the life we've lived
Is captured in these windows
And if there ever comes a time
When this world tries, To pull you away
I've hung some memories in our hallway
