Soon After Midnight

Bob Dylan

I'm searching for phrases,
To sing your praises,
I need to tell someone,
It's soon after midnight,
And my day has just begun
A gal named Honey,
Took my money,
She was passing by,
It's soon after midnight,
And the moon is in my eye
My heart is cheerful,
It's never fearful,
I've been down on the killing floor,
I'm in no great hurry,
I'm not afraid of your fury,
I've faced stronger walls than yours

Charlotte the Harlot,
Dresses in scarlet,
Mary dresses in green
It's soon after midnight,
And I've got a date with a fairy queen
They chip and they chatter,
What does it matter,
They're alive and die but never love,
2 timing slim
Who's ever heard of him,
I'll drag his corpse through the mud
It's now or never,
More than ever,
When I meet ya I did'nt think you'd do,
It's soon after midnight,
And I don't want nobody but you
