On the Run

Deadly Nightshade Botanical Society

I stand alone in a field of stone as the rain comes down for another day a thousand miles from here to home with no one to worry I walked away

I know what I've lost
and every day I still lament the cost
I know, what I've done
the worst is over now I'm on the run

I hope it matters not the choice is made but I have to wonder if it will ever change Try to cast aside the doubts and fears leave behind the pain of my fallen tears

and every day I still lament the cost
I know what I've done
the worst is over now I'm on the run
