

Real World (2001 Remastered Version)

Bruce Dickinson

How many lifetimes, how many beginnings
How many lovers, how many threats
How many religions to keep us all guessing
Give me a reason. Why? Hell is a reason. Why? The real world, you've got to fight to see it through
The real world, it's like the cages in the zoo
The real world, is there a lifelong there to be?
The real world, the real world Too many people try to sell you their cages
Killing the fox till the jailer arrives
If living in zoos is your idea of outrageous
Don't pick any animal, I'll be the wild one The real world, you've got to fight to see it through
The real world, it's like the cages in the zoo
The real world can leave you hanging by a thread
The real world, the real world [SOLO] The real world, you've got to fight to see it through
The real world, it's like the cages in the zoo
The real world can leave you hanging by a thread
The real world, the real world
[x2] The real world, the real world [x2]

Songwriters

DICKINSON, BRUCE / RAMIREZ, ROGER Published by

Lyrics © Warner/Chappell Music, Inc. Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>