Give Love Each Day

Yes

Standing here on sacred ground
Some days it's a mad world let it be
Words of promise fill the air, empty voices
How long have we waited?
And every time I hold your hand
You bring to me this promised land
I live for you, this promised land
Take me there and back again
Some days it's a sad world let it be
What's the point of looking for this power divine?
It's already in my changes
And every time I hear your voice
I realize I have a choice
To live again, I deserve this choice, to live again
Our hand will be now
You are the song from the book of time
To realize what is yours is mine we are meant to be
All because our love has always been
You are the center of my day
You are my guide in every way we are meant to be
All because our love has always been there
Giving me the light, yes it's been there, giving me the light
Second nature sings to me
Some days it's a dark world let it be
I define my right to be
I can follow those who've lost their vision
And every time I hold your hand
You redesign my promised land
I live for you, this promised land, I live for you
You are the song from the book of time
To realize what is yours is mine
We are meant to be
All because our love has always been
You are the center of my day
You are my guide in every way we are meant to be
All because our love has always been there
Giving me the light, yes it's been there giving me the light
You are the song from the book of time
To realize what is yours is mine

We are meant to be
All because our love has always been
You are the center of my day
You are my guide in every way we are meant to be
All because our love has always been there
Giving me the light, yes it's been there giving me the light
Give love each day, give love each day
Give love each day, give love each day
Give love each day, give love each day
Give love each day, give love each day
Give love each day, give love each day
Give love each day
