I dont have to tell you things about it, everybody knows things about it, its "recession". Governments are conservatives, taxes are rising, and wages are falling. People are scared, their petrified. The power suppliers dont help, full tank cost an arm and a leg. Houses aren't even safe houses anymore people aren't safe in their own homes. 14 year old kids getting murdered on the street, asbo kids binge drinking on park benches till all hours in the morning. Cant even get on the bus anymore they take up the whole back row listening to that hip hop and grime noise they call music, off their faces on MDMA, meow meow, whatever they can get their thieving little hands on. All of that while teenage pregnancy rises through the roof. We know things are bad, worse than bad THERE CRAZY! And all you do is sit there in your open plan living rooms talking to absolute strangers on Facebook and you wonder why your young sons and daughters aspire to be celebrities, football players and wags, its madness. It seems like you've given up, but Im not going to let you give up, I want you to get mad!
