

What Good Is Love?

Barbra Streisand

Everywhere I go, I hear sweet songs about the moon
Songs about the stars above and songs of love and June
Songs of hearts that beat as one to some sweet lovers tune
But they're not songs that sing for me Songs about the dream that lie within a lover's eyes
Songs about the cloudless sky and lover's paradise
Songs about the joys of love and lover's lullabies
But there not songs that sing for me What good is love?
If you have to face cold hungry days and sighing
What good is love?
If life's just a race to keep your heart from crying Let the poet sing of skies above
And endless love and hearts that dance
Where is my chance?
For the call of romance What good is love?
If you haven't got, all that makes life worth living
What good is love?
If you haven't got, even a thing worth giving You can keep your little songs
That sing of all the joy that love can bring
What good's romance?
What good is love to me? You can keep your little songs
That sing of all the joy that love can bring
What good's romance?
What good is love to me?
