

Midnight

Jack Shaw

Say it's cold now, lights are shining out.
It's a been a long done, bitter love.

Freezing fog, no pain,
Love in the eyes, alcohol veins.
Streets packed here in the dark, what brought us together can tear us apart.
It's only you to lay with me, let me be.

Hold me I'll be there to hold you back, kiss me at midnight, midnight.
Hold me, I'll be there to hold you back, kiss me at midnight, midnight.

Body shaking, wide eyes,
Lost for words, streets laid wide,
Red against your cheeks like art,
Apparently cold hands lead to warm hearts.
Pull me up, text me drunk, the way you always do, always do.
Kissed in June, fell in July, lost between the winter lies,
Sheets lay stain, a steam a friend.

Hold me I'll be there to hold you back, kiss me at midnight, midnight.
Hold me I'll be there to hold you back, kiss me at midnight, midnight.
Hold me I'll be there to hold you back, kiss me at midnight, midnight.
Hold me I'll be there to hold you back, kiss me at midnight, midnight.
Hold me I'll be there to hold you back, kiss me at midnight, midnight.
Hold me I'll be there to hold you back, kiss me at midnight, midnight.
