Joseph Habedank

Something Different
Joseph Habedank

Thereâ€™s something different about this stable
Shepherds are running there from near and far
Angels are gathered and singing glory
Kings are following a big bright star

Thereâ€™s something different about this temple
The walls are echoing the voice of a child
He says Heâ€™s all about His Fatherâ€™s business
A little twelve year old is teaching the wise

Thereâ€™s something different about this water
The winds and waves are rocking too and fro
But in a moment all is still and peaceful
The raging storm has somehow been controlled

Thereâ€™s something different about these people
The blind, the lame and deaf, all hope seems lost
But now the seeing, walking, and even listening
They say this healing Man has changed it all

Everything changes when He appears
Trouble has to go when He is near
So take every burden youâ€™re holding to
Lay them down and let Him do, something different in you
Something different
Something different
Something different

Thereâ€™s something different about this mountain
A guiltless man is hanging on a cross
He questions why His Father has forsaken
A Saviorâ€™s dying for a world thatâ€™s lost

Thereâ€™s something different about this garden
An angel stands beside an empty grave
The morning sun has broken through darkness

For He has risen with the power to save

Everything changes when He appears

Trouble has to go when He is near

So take every burden you're holding to

Lay them down and let Him do, something different, now

Everything changes when He appears

Trouble has to go when He is near

So take every burden you're holding to

Lay them down and let Him do, something different in you

Something different

Something different

Something different

Something different

Something different

Something different

Something different in you
