Great American Sharpshooter

Less Than Jake

So you think of what it could've been When "time is al you've lost" Keeps burning through your head and Now you fall asleep standing but lie Awake in bed watch the clock drag on And think about what you should've saidIt's for the better Your better half is gone. It's ok - you didn't need her anyway. And I don't want to hear you say Nobody can take her place And what more can I say-You didn't need her anyways. So you think of how it should've been And "it's just over" Keeps going through your head. You're hearing all those words time & time again Watch the phone all night And think about what you should've saidIt's for the better your better half is gone.

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/