Tennessee Song

1997

There's a sadness in the air
On the train to Tennessee
And I know there's no angel
Watching over meAll I have to hold is this atlas and a note that reads
"If ever you are ready to come home again
I'll be waiting up but please don't be too long"You know I never meant to make you lonesome
But I got my own plans and if you love me, understand
I've got to take this road to find out who I really amSo tonight, I'll take the long way home
And drink until I can't remember you
Or why I ever startedIf I can't hold you, gonna fold you like a note
And keep you here with meThought about your smile
On the car ride up to Madison
Are you still letting go?
Are you still letting go?'Cause I've been trying to move on
But I'm feeling so damn lost
Without your love, without your loveTonight, I'll take the long way home
And drink until I can't remember you
Or why I ever startedIf I can't hold you, gonna fold you like a note
And keep you here with me
I want you here with meTonight I'll take the long way home
Won't you drink with me until the sun comes up?
Look at what we startedIf I can't hold you, I'm gonna fold you like a note
And keep you here with me
