

No Other

Black Label Society

Stoned once again, how long has it been?
Oh, there can be no other
My ever constant fix, for in the stream which drowns my sin
Oh, there can be no other Oh could I be wrong, could I be wrong? Oh no
Oh it's where I fear I belong
Oh I've lost myself along the way
Oh, yeah, ain't got nothing left to say I've burnt my bridge to the past
And I buried my broken bones
How I long for what I once had known Cinder blocks and chains laid by the insane
Oh, there can be no other
Worthless to the core diseased forevermore
Oh, there can be no other Oh could I be wrong, could I be wrong? Oh no
Oh it's where I fear I belong
Oh I've lost myself along the way
Oh yeah, ain't got nothing left to say I've burnt my bridge to the past
And I buried my broken bones
How I long for what I once had known Oh could I be wrong, could I be wrong? Oh no
Oh it's where I fear I belong
Oh I've lost myself along the way
Oh yeah, ain't got nothing left to say I've burnt my bridge to the past
And buried my broken bones
How I long for what I once had known
How I long for what I once had known
How I long for what I once had known

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>