

Because of You

World5

I was walking in darkness or maybe I was just blind
I was wondering for years in a prison of my own design
I was living in the shadows I couldn't see the light
I couldn't seem to open my eyes I couldn't see the the future was surrounded by my past
No direction seemed the right way to move
Now there's new meaning in my life something honest and true
It's a feeling that I never knew because of you You saw something in me something I couldn't see in myself
A heart that was pure you were sure that you knew me so well
You knew the way to make love reappear
You made everything so clear I couldn't see the the future was surrounded by my past
No direction seemed the right way to move
Now there's new meaning in my life something honest and true
It's a feeling that I never knew because of you
