Surprise Ice

Kings Of Convenience

When past sometimes takes you with soft hands
Forcelessly pulls you to your chair
Hides you away from these half days
Sunless at the end of the year
The air is like a knife cutting through you
A room in the house is always warm
Stretched out on the bathroom floor thinking
Of fair days your future may hold
Love comes like surprise ice on the water
Love comes like surprise ice at dawn
Love comes like surprise ice on the water
Love comes at dawn

Deprived of the light and of colors
The world ends at your window tree
Darkness creates these illusions
But pale days can teach you to see
Rain falls but no life is given
Weeks pass, no progress is made
Past sometimes takes you with soft hands
And all that surrounds you will fade
Love comes like surprise ice on the water
Love comes like surprise ice at dawn
Love comes like surprise ice on the water
Love comes at dawn
