

Feet Touch The Ground

Jebediah

So I thought the worst was over
When my heart stopped beating again
And the weak side of my body has come undone
Through trusting them
Took the lift to the third floor
So we walked into the building
When what they tell me is just what they sell me
Pain lies behind that door what am I to do now?
And I know to be realistic
Any fool believes what you tell them
Will save me from the shock to come
Happiness is being dumb
Everyone needs some kind of guide to help them
And it's not the truth but I'm not calming down
So we listened to the experts
See deep inside what am I to do now?
When what they tell me is just what they sell me
So I thought the worst was over
Till my feet touch the ground
When my heart stopped beating again
I'm never trusting them
So don't listen to the experts
And the weak side of my body doubled up
Can you hear the truth ring what am I to do now
Cos I've seen they don't know anything
