

Walking On Air

Mitch McVicker

The sun smiles and dips behind mountain trees
A holy light fills the sky, though it rains all around me
And a rainbow begins to glow to remind me of home
And my heart starts pounding so loudly I'm walking on air
Even the angels stop and they stare at me
I'm on top of the hemisphere
And I can see clear to forever
I'm walking on air Horizon haze all ablaze like a branding iron
Your energy flow soul to me, fueling my soul gone tired
When warm sands of circumstances are not lasting
Your love has whitecaps, it keeps on crashing I'm walking on air
Even the angels stop and they stare at me
I'm on top of the hemisphere
And I can see clear to forever
I'm walking on air To the left and the right, I'm on top and I'm just fine
And the angels stop and stare at me
Whether in or outside it's enough, I'm alive
I'm looking up as you carry me I'm walking on air, I'm walking on air
Even the angels, they take a picture of me I'm walking on air
Even the angels stop and they stare at me
I'm on top of the hemisphere
And I can see clear to forever
I'm walking on air
