

Dance Like You're Dumb

Incubus

Nobody gets what you got without getting all hot with the bosses daughter
Taking her out on the town to see up spin around making out with the dress turned upside down
Have a drink what ya think she's all heels and kick bet you thought you landed
Then like a pink Boba Fett she calls you on your bet and your hat is the least of what you're handed

Dance because you're young and you don't need a reason
Dance just like you got your legs from a cartoon
Dance just like you're dumb like you don't need the money
Dance under the moon cuz you never know never know

You were gift with the biz, now you're tired of the risk to the boss mans daughter
You thought singing her praises would get you a raise now you're just like a horse being led through the water
If I come on in take you on the chin is a price worth payin
For a glimpse just a look lets have one of the books
She's a pink Boba Fett and that's all I'm sayin

Dance because you're young and you don't need a reason
Dance just like you got your legs from a cartoon
Dance just like you're dumb like you don't need the money
Dance under the moon cuz you never know never know

Never know, never know
Never know, never know
Like you don't need a reason
Yea you don't need the money
Yea you don't need a reason
Like you don't need the money

Just when you thought you were done cuz you breathe too much fun, now the red lights flashin
She kept a rainbow of pills, she was up on her thrills, both her brains and her body, like, took a bashing
Of course in her mind I'm not trying to put it all on her
Put it on who, city boy, take a look it's just you, now I'm just like a lamb headed to the slaughter

Dance because you're young and you don't need a reason
Dance just like you got your legs from a cartoon
Dance just like you're dumb like you don't need the money

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnyrics.com/>