Smile

David Amber

I was hanging by a thread I thought that I was good as dead But you were there, you never let me fall You never let me down Was falling into blue But now I'm falling into you Was almost gone, was almost swept away But I'm back down on the ground So before you go Need to let you know That our lives may change 'cause nothing ever stays the same Though miles apart you'll be in my heart Though the face may fade All those memories remain So smile on me and say goodbye I'll smile right back through these tears in my eyes A hundred years or a million miles When I think of you, well baby I will smile Oh yea, ooh I will smile, baby, I will smile Do you remember when We used to lie awake in bed We used to laugh, 'cause we didn't care It was us against the world I always thought be Right here, forever holding me But I was wrong, now you're leaving me And I don't know where to turn But before you go Need to let you know That your face may fade But my heart will never change So smile on me and say goodbye I'll smile right back through these tears in my eyes A hundred years or a million miles When I think of you, well baby I will smile Oh yea, ooh I will smile, baby, I will smile I can still, still taste you on my lips I can still feel you driving me wild You know I'm always gonna love you But I gotta find a way to smile I can still, still taste you on my lips I can still feel you driving me wild You know I'm always gonna love you But baby I gotta smile So smile on me and say goodbye I'll smile right back through these tears in my eyes A hundred years or a million miles When I think of you, well baby I will smile Oh yea, ooh I will smile, baby, I will smile..
