The Fear

Levellers

Do you wake up every day in a world that seems crazy
A world you love to hate?
Are you scared or do you feel pretty safe?
Do you think you have nothing or do you think you've got it made?You know it feels like you're going insane
And I've done everything you told me to take away the pain
Then you change my medication again
It's getting harder to tell just who or what's insaneDo your nightmares tear you apart?
Do you wake up screaming, shouting in the dark?
Do the demons keep you awake?
Does the clock tick more slowly with every breath you take?You know it feels like you're going insane
I've done everything you told me to take away the pain
Then you change my medication again
It's getting harder to tell just who or what's insaneDoes each day seem like the next
You turn on in the morning 'cause turning offs the best
Do you think that it will never change
Or does mass self delusion, meddle with your brain?You know it feels like you're going insane
I've done everything you told me to take away the pain
Then you change my medication again
It's getting harder to tell just who or what's insaneYou see I think I know it all
Well, I think I know the way
You've given me the power
By making me insaneYou know it feels like I'm going insane
Well, maybe you love me better a little bit deranged
But it may be a different way
If it keeps on the way it's going
There'll be no one stay insane, stay insaneIt's not insane
It's not insane
It's not insane
