

Hang Your Head

Deacon Blue

There's no sleep inside
And their dreams are broke and inspired
All the times you try to scream And blinds are pulled and closed
Houses dark indoors
Everything that needed change And there's nothing wise
Or twice as good as nice
You save it all inside while you Hang your head
Hang your head And underneath it all
Your smile, your smile, your smile is flawed
And the songs you sing are only spoken The promise of this child
You crossed your palms with silver crowns and the People swore hes only choking There's no promises
No light is ever shed
Between the living and dead you Hang your head
Hang your head There's no promises
No light is ever shed
Between the living and dead you Hang your head
Hang your head
Hang your head
