Never Believe You Now

Abra Moore

You're telling me the future plans
Where candy-colored pictures fill your hands
For a minute I am with you there
And I'm picking out some pretty dress to wearBut I'll never believe you now
I never believed you then
ShameI know a place where summers shine
And every fairy tale comes real before my eyes
And the stories that you always tell
Well, they never held together too well, noAnd I'll never believe you now
I never believed you then
And I'll never believe you nowCould you look at, at you now
And what it's doing to me
Broken pieces
Of what it used to be, yeahHey, yeah yeah
It used to be
Hey, yeah yeah
Hey hey hey
Hey hey heyAnd I'll never believe you now
I never believed you then
ShameCould you look at, at you now
And what it's doing to me
Broken pieces
Of what it used to beCould you look at, at you now
And what it's doing to me
Broken pieces
Of what it used to beYeah yeah, could you look at
(Never believe you)
Look at, yeah
It used to beYeah yeah, could you look at
(Never believe you)
Could you look at
(Never believe you)
Yeah yeah, could you look at
(Never believe you)
Could youYeah yeah, could you look at
(Never believe you)
