

The Sweet Sunny South

Jerry Garcia & David Grisman

Take me back to the place where I first saw the light
To the sweet sunny south, take me home
Where the mockingbirds sing me to rest every night
    Oh, why was I tempted to roam?
And I think with regret of the dear home I left
    Of the warm hearts that sheltered me there
    Of wife and of dear ones, of whom I'm bereft
        For the old place again do I sigh?
Take me back to the place where the orange trees grow
    To my plot in the evergreen shade
Where the flowers from the river's green margins did grow
    And spread their sweet scent through the glade
Oh the path to our cottage, they say, has grown green
    And the place is quite lonely around
I know that the smiles and the forms I have seen
    Now lie in the dark mossy ground
Take me back, let me see what is left that I knew
    Can it be that the old house is gone?
Dear friends of my childhood indeed must be few
    And I must face death all alone
    But yet I'll return to the place of my birth
    The children have played round the door
Where they gathered wild blossoms that grow round the path
    They'll echo our footsteps no more
Take me back to the place where my little ones sleep
    Poor Massa lies buried close by
    By the graves of my loved ones, I long for to weep
        And among them to rest when I die
Take me back to the place where I first saw the light
To the sweet sunny south, take me home
Where the mockingbirds sing me to rest every night
    Oh, why was I tempted to roam?

Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.