

Afterwards (The Tale At the End)

Root

[The tale at the end]Clatter of hoofs, black robes,
Night falls on the land,
Neigh of horses, the scent of flame,
Leather, steel, and sweat.Riders are hurrying through the dark plain,
Like a wind of destruction,
And behind them silence prevails again,
As they were not ...

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnyrics.com/>